Up to the present the training of the crews drawn for last week has gone on in a satisfactor way, and the "raw uns" are beginning to show improved form. The list for entries for the sirable, and in fact almost essential, to the German and American Cups is now posted up in the Club, and a few names were put down last night. A notification is also posted to the effect that Friday evenings will be set aside for practice for the international crews. For the present no strong favourite has been picked out from the four boats in training, and as for as we can see, the race between them is likely to be a very keen one, as all the crews are good promising ones. As yet there have been no withdrawals of selected men as generally happens, though there is by them all." Then comes the remark :-- plenty of time for it yet.

A New York Herald editorial, reviewing Justice Field's decision, says :- Justice Field's facilitate the settlement of the simplest on every ground entitled to exact the view of the Chinese Restriction Act, if not so liberal as that of Judge Lowell, appears to be more strictly in accordance with the purpose of Congress, and his is the more judicial interpretation of the law. But it may raise another question ; Hongkong is a British possession. Chinese born were British subjects. By the treaty with Great | hard labour. Britain the United States is free to all subjects of that nation. This stipulation is now abrogated in part by the decision of Justice Field. That however, was the question with which Justice field had nothing to do, since Congress had unquestioned power to pass a law restricting any existing treaty, and it is simply the business of brought up on both sides, and the antipathy by these powers with regard to the interests a court to construe the law without any reference to its effect on a treaty. A violation by Congress of a treaty with a friendly foreign power is always open to diplomany by that power.

> I POST-MORTEM REVELATION OF HISTORICAL INTEREST

ERIE (Pa.), 23rd September. About six weeks are reference was made to the death of Margaret Gaunt, an aged recluse about whose life a mystery was said to hang. For the last twenty years of her life she lived in a small hat. In all that time no man, woman, or child ever succeeded in learning who she was or where she came from. A few hours before her death she confided a packet of papers to a noish. bour, with instructions to give them to E C. Gaunt, who would come from England for them. In obedience to a command mailed to \mathbf{Mr}_{r} Gauss. he arrived yesterday and to his great sarprise. found the packet to contain documents that have been wanting in his family for over 150 years to prove certain claims against the British Crown. note informed him that his relative, the deceased, who disappeared from England forte yours ago and had long been considered dead, had discovered the papers in an ancient piece of family furniture that had ham be ind by h debris of a century, and that to spite certain members of the family she had concerted her great discovery.

The woman was the great-great-great-granddaughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Guant, who was burned at the stake by the sentence of Jeffreys. Her offence was sheltering James Burton, a Rye House plot conspirator, and not withstanding she fed and nursed the sick traitor in ignorance of his character, King James refused all potitions to save her from the flames, and she was reasted to death at Tyburn. She was the last woman burned in England for a political offence. Her death was so infamous that Macaulay makes special mention of it, and save that William Penn, the founder of Pennsylvania, was present at her burning. William III. promised to roduring the reign of Anne and George I., but the absence of latters written by James, Jeffreys, William I. and others was fatal. These letters are the identical ones discovered, and Gaunt believes he can recover £10,000,000 from the Crown. He left to-day for Europe. - S. F. Chronicle.

ALIBAM - DEARILS WITH THE PUNTI AND MANDABIN PRONUNCIATION. An Anglo-Chinese Dictionary, published at the Daily Press Office, Hongkong. For comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years beep compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance here given in extenso. Each and every word is THE Company's Steamship fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given, Captain S. Ashton, expected here To-DAY, displays the success of an attempt to make the DAYLIGHT. Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of renigator i displueda not disalona attained, and dispensing with those vast margins and vacant spaces which have heretofore charactorized Chinese publications.

> following facts are submitted for consideration:-Chalmers' Vocabulary contains about 16,000 Chinese characters, and Medhurst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst this work contains more than 50,000 English words, and upwards of 600,000 Chinese characters. Again, despite all the grammars and other elementary works as yet published, the student of this difficult language absolutely requires examples to display the various applications and equivalents of different words which have one general meaning. Of these examples this work contains more than five times as many as any other Dictionary hitherto pub-

To illustrate the vast scope of the work, the

For practical purposes the arrangement of FIRE Company's Steamship the work is so complete, that a reference to its pages enables a person who understands English understand nothing but Chinese. In this respect the work will be found indispensable to all Europeans residing in China, and to the natives themselves it explains subjects fully with which very few indeed of them are perfectly acquainted.
